

Vocabulary	Pronunciation	Meaning	Collocations	Examples
penal (adj) [C1] (penalty (n), penalize (v))	/ˈpiːnl/	Thuộc về hình phạt (Relating to the legal punishment of crimes or the system of prisons)	1. penal code – The country's penal code was recently updated to include cybercrimes. 2. penal system – Many activists argue that the current penal system focuses too much on punishment. 3. penal reform – Human rights groups are calling for urgent penal reform in overcrowded facilities.	1. The government introduced a new penal code. 2. The lawyer studied the penal system, and he found several inconsistencies. 3. Although the penal laws are strict, crime rates remain high in the city. 4. The senator proposed a penal reform bill, but it faced opposition because many felt it was too lenient.
pit (v) [C1] (pitted (adj/v-ed), pitting (v-ing))	/pɪt/	Đối đầu (To set someone or something in conflict or competition with someone or something else)	1. pit against – The tournament will pit the defending champion against a rising star. 2. pit one's wits against – Chess is a game where you pit your wits against an	1. The contest pits the two best teams against each other. 2. They pitted the rookie against the veteran, so the match was very intense. 3. Since the trial pits his word opponent. 3. pit A against B – The war pitted brother against brother in a tragic conflict.	against hers, the jury must decide who is more credible. 4. The upcoming debate pits the incumbent against the challenger, and voters are eager to see who will prevail.

retribution (n) [C2] (retributive (adj))	/ˌretriˈbjuːʃn/	Sự báo thù/trừng phạt (Punishment inflicted on someone as vengeance for a wrong or criminal act; "just deserts")	1. seek retribution – The victims' families continue to seek retribution for the tragedy. 2. divine retribution – Some ancient cultures viewed natural disasters as divine retribution. 3. fear of retribution – Many witnesses refused to testify due to a fear of retribution from the gang.	1. The victim's family demanded retribution. 2. He sought retribution for the insult, yet he felt no peace afterward. 3. Because the public demanded retribution, the judge handed down the maximum sentence. 4. The rebels sought retribution for the massacre, but they realized that further violence would only lead to more suffering.

rehabilitation (n) [B2/C1] (rehabilitate (v), rehabilitated (adj))	/rɪˈæˌbɪlɪˈteɪʃn/	Sự cải tạo/phục hồi (The process of helping someone to return to a normal life after being in prison, addicted, or ill)	1. rehabilitation center – He spent six months in a rehabilitation center after the accident. 2. vocational rehabilitation – The program offers vocational rehabilitation to help former inmates find jobs. 3. drug rehabilitation – She successfully completed a drug rehabilitation program last year.	1. The prison offers a rehabilitation program. 2. He focused on rehabilitation, but his progress was initially slow. 3. If the offender undergoes rehabilitation, they are less likely to reoffend. 4. The facility specializes in physical rehabilitation, so patients receive expert care while they recover from surgery.
largely (adv) [B2] (large (adj))	/'lɑːrdʒli/	Phần lớn/chủ yếu (To a great extent; mostly or mainly)	1. largely responsible – Human activity is largely responsible for global warming. 2. largely due to – The success of the project was largely due to her leadership. 3. remain largely unchanged –	1. The report was largely positive. 2. The town was largely destroyed, yet the community refused to give up. 3. Although the technology is new, it is largely based on older principles. 4. The failure was punitive (adj) [C1] (punish (v), punishment (n))	/ˈpjuːnətɪv/	Có tính trừng phạt (Intended as a punishment or involving punishment)	1. punitive damages – The court awarded the plaintiff $1 million in punitive damages. 2. punitive measures – The school took punitive measures against the students who bullied others. 3. punitive tax – The government introduced a punitive tax on high-sugar beverages.	1. The company faced punitive actions. 2. The laws are punitive, and they discourage innovation in the sector. 3. While some support punitive justice, others believe in restorative approaches. 4. The international community imposed punitive sanctions, but the regime refused to comply even though the economy was failing.

			Despite the new management, the daily routine remains largely unchanged.	largely attributed to poor planning, but the team remained optimistic because they learned from their mistakes.
proponent (n) [C1] (propose	/prəˈpounənt/	Người ủng hộ (A person who	1. leading proponent – She is a leading	1. He is a proponent of free trade.

(v), proposal (n))		speaks publicly in support of a particular idea, policy, or plan)	proponent of renewable energy in the region. 2. proponent of reform – As a proponent of reform, he spent years lobbying the government. 3. strong proponent – The professor is a strong proponent of experiential learning.	2. She is a proponent of the law, and she defends it regularly. 3. Since he is a proponent of solar energy, he installed panels on his roof. 4. The activist is a vocal proponent of animal rights, but she acknowledges that change takes time when public opinion is divided.
deterrent (n) [C1] (deter (v), deterrence (n))	/dɪˈtɜːrənt/	Cái ngăn chặn/răn đe (A thing that discourages or is intended to discourage someone from doing something)	1. effective deterrent – High fines serve as an effective deterrent against speeding. 2. nuclear deterrent – The country maintains a nuclear deterrent to prevent foreign invasion. 3. serve as a	1. The heavy fine is a deterrent. 2. Prison is a deterrent, yet many people still commit crimes. 3. Because the alarm is a visible deterrent, burglars usually avoid the house. 4. Some argue that the death penalty is a deterrent, but deterrent – Security cameras serve as a deterrent to potential shoplifters.	statistics suggest that it does not significantly lower the murder rate.

harsh (adj) [B2/C1] (harshly (adv), harshness (n))	/hɑːrʃ/	Khắc nghiệt (Unpleasantly severe, cruel, or demanding)	1. harsh conditions – Explorers had to endure harsh conditions in the Arctic. 2. harsh reality – The layoffs forced many employees to face the harsh reality of the job market. 3. harsh criticism – The director's new film received harsh criticism from reviewers.	1. The winter was very harsh. 2. The climate is harsh, and few plants can survive there. 3. Although the punishment was harsh, it was deemed necessary by the board. 4. The judge delivered a harsh sentence, but the defendant accepted it because he knew he had committed a grave error.
escalate (v) [C1] (escalation (n), escalating (adj))	/ˈeskəleɪt/	Leo thang/tăng vọt (To become or make something become greater, more serious, or more intense)	1. escalate the conflict – Neither side wanted to escalate the conflict further. 2. escalate rapidly – Prices	1. The tension began to escalate. 2. Costs continue to escalate, and the budget is now overdrawn. 3. If the protest for basic goods began to escalate rapidly during the crisis. 3. escalate to a supervisor – If the clerk cannot help you, please escalate the issue to a supervisor.	escalates, the police will have to intervene immediately. 4. The dispute started as a minor disagreement, but it escalated quickly after both parties refused to apologize for their remarks.

--	--	--	---	---